Teaching Strategies

The course is taught as an individual research project to develop a level of research skills and autonomy.

Private Study

As a rough guide, on average a student would be expected to spend approximately 10 hours per week on work related to this course. More guidance is needed in the early stages from the supervisor when the topic is being defined to establish the objectives and methodology of the thesis.

Supervision

There are no specific hours assigned to this course. Meetings between the supervisor(s) and the student may take place periodically or by prior arrangement. Should supervisors be on study leave or unavailable for a considerable period of the session, then alternative arrangements need to be established and made known to both the student and course coordinator.

Consultation

The course convenor and tutors will be available via Microsoft Teams to liaise with enrolled students as needed.
