

Resource landscapes for young people leaving residential alcohol and drug services: Research Summary 3

Young people, hope and residential AOD settings: Reimagining futures without AOD problems

Date: October 2023

Authors: Gabriel Caluzzi, Sarah MacLean, Rebecca Gray, provided young people safe, judgement-free spaces that made them feel positive about themselves and their futures. This allowed young people to make practical plans and provided a sense of optimism.

Just from the information that they [residential AOD service] taught me, it just opened my mind into

2021. The project is a partnership between UNSW Sydney Australia, La Trobe University Melbourne Australia, Kings College London United Kingdom, YSAS Youth Support Advocacy Services, and The Ted Noffs Foundation. Joanne Neale is part-funded by the National Institute for Health and Ca.7 (u)4 (e)1.8 (r)2.8 (r)2.y (f).61 4 (e)8a2.7 (v)4dc (d1)-1.2 (t)3u

